

ST TW

We are STRAIGHT THROUGH THE WALL, a guerrilla Arts collective that projects video art onto walls throughout NYC. We scour the city for blank building facades, willing canvases waiting above busy avenues or hovering over quiet gardens and empty lots. With every screening, we incorporate art into the cityscape, merging it with New York's varied architecture, bringing it out of the rigid structures of galleries & exhibitions, and delivering it directly to the masses.

The sun sets. A small audience gathers on the sidewalk. Other New Yorkers rush past, some without noticing the large projection just above their line of sight. Others stop for a couple minutes to take in the spectacle. A video, over two stories tall, glows on a nearby wall.

Each year, we program a lineup of exciting works by emerging and established video artists to be projected on blank walls throughout NYC, and STTW 2031 is our project's fourth consecutive year of screenings.

In 2021, we will following local mandates to keep our audience safe during the Covid-19 Pandemic. Luckily, our outdoor screenings fit perfectly into our collective new normal. We're excited to be able to share this amazing video lineup with you despite everything that's happening in the world.

STEP INTO THE FUTURE

The future, conceptually exciting, mysterious, hopeful and terrifying, will soon be the mundanity of our daily lives. While flying cars and hover boards (regrettably) seem unlikely, so much else remains perfectly unknowable. Will we survive the various historical moments of the year 2020 to transcend our daily struggles together, holding hands and dancing in Utopian bliss a decade later? Or will we slide into unfathomable ignorance and fall like lemmings into a new dark age? And where will the robots/algorithms /intergalactic aliens [check all that apply] fit in? Or is it possible that the year 2031 will be so much more boring than all that?
